The Surrat Mystery.

From the New York Tribute
Since the assassination of President Lincoln, we have lid endless surmises, and makeshlits, and tricks in reference to the crime, and those accuses in the first place, we had the Government proclamations, accusing Dayls, and Sanders, and Thompson of the assassination. Then we had the trials, in which these persons were solumnly arraigned as participants in that crime. There are few things our children will care less to read than this self same trial, with its way ward and rude justice. Then came the swift excution of Mrs Surratt, although Payne, an assassin by his own confession, assisted that had not the companion of the companion of the retine fact that it was known where he was, and made no effort to arrest him until Boutwell, speaking the public opinion of the nation, compalled his arrest. We also have the imprisonment of Dayls as an assassim—if there is any value in the judgment of the commission that tried Payne, and his companions. His continued imprisonment without trial, or pretense of a trial, is in itself a mystery and shame.

Then came General Buller's famous speech, showing that the Jury of Boeth 'red been suppressed, on the conspiracy trial, and the declaration of a great lawyer that Mrs. Surratt had been innocently langed Inmediately equan an announcement that the War Department would eat, with the announcement that he is not to be trud because the trait might establish the fact that Mrs Surreat was not quilty at all I is turn that this juggling should cease, and especially as the Surrait case is only a part of the juggling that has been permitted since the death of Mr I incoln. That tragedy is the most mysterious in the annals of crime. There is some thing hilden that we crave to know. Winst it is we cannot say, but the records of the trial, the continued imprisonneut of Mr Davis, and os pecially the shuffling of the Government, compel distruct and suspicion. Why has not Booth's dary been published? Why is George N Surders not demanded from the British Government of me administration really believes he was a gers not demanded from the British Government of the Administration really believes he was a partner in the crime of Booth? Why is not Davis either panished or released? And why is not John II Surratt, against whom at least, all the evidence we have points uncertingly, brought to justice?

PA., WEDNESDAY, MAY 1, 1867.

Dr. Coste contributes an article on this subject to the Journal des Commansumes Vicecules. The author observes that the dampines of our apartments is often agreeted that the tot the atmosphere, the former being increased by the aqueous vapor evolved from the coment and plaster on ployed in building. Whereaver a large gamber of persons are assembled, their breath also contributes a considerable quantity of water to the atmosphere, thereby adding to the other causes of insalabrity it contains, on account of the soil mal matter which always accomponies it.

The quantity of aqueous vapor exhalted by a man in the course of twenty four hours is stated by M. M. Dumas and Seguin (who both conducted their experiments beganately) to vary between 800 and 1,000 grammes. A ball containing 300 persons for the space of eight hours, therefor, receives by this means about 100 litres of water, or enough to saturate 9,000 cubic metros of a state of the spaces centigrade. And it, as is more frequently the case, the air of this hall contained the borechand half the humality it was capible of the above quantity of water would saturate doubte the mass of sit, that is, 14 000 cubic

A new house ought to be left a whole summer to dry histories and this rule is actually enforced by the authorities at Taum, where it is the business of sworn agents to verify that a new house has remained numbristical for a whole, yet since the fast the was plued. In a room not bigger than three metres by four it was found that the new plastering on the wills emitted three littles and a bail of water in the course of a fortunght. Dr Coff war, sits in casy will assert a fortungh the Coff war, sits in casy will of ascertaining whether an apartment to be in histories damp or not. Place he hundred gins of quickline on a plate, leve it in the apartment, and if at the end of twenty four hours the substance, which absorbs moisture, very greedily, has not mercused in weight by more line out since, which absorbs moisture truly be considered fit to live in ... The Fstchary jewels, which have been for some time on show in the Strand, were sold yesterday at auction—and ob! what a crowd of looked noses and glittering black eyes gathered around them! The magnificent Prince, whose states were a kingdom, and who on State occasions, binstof from head to fone with lewels of more than oriental splendor, was up to his systim debt as well as in diamonds. In the various articles sold yesterday there must have been $5,000 diamonds. The wonderful algrette, entirely composed offeathers of diamonds with a great emerald courte, was divided into eighteen lots. It contains about 4000 diamonds, and sold for $27,000. The course of courter of the control prought $6,500.

The Government will pay out us com interest due on the list of May, on flut twentics, $24.0%, 000, being the amount due on the issues of 1862 and 1864 and the first issue of 1865. The last semi annual payment was due on the lat of No vember, when the New York office of the Treasury paid out in the source of that mouth $14,786.261, and in the succeeding mouth of December $1.24,06. The other offices, at Washington, Philadelphia and Boston paid out nearly $4.500, the lieved to be in foreign ownership is $280.000,000, which, with some moderate amounts of 1864 and 1865, held in England, will require about $8.500,000 gold interest to be paid in May, on coupons remitted from aircoad Naarly the whole of this is collected at New York

THIRD DAY - MORNING SESSION. At the opening of the Court, Mr. Julias Shor wood for the prisoner, moved the Magistrate that the prosecution be dismissed. The counsel said so far not a particle of evidence against the prisoner, or any person known to the Court had He desired the prosecution to come to a point, to implicate the accused or to abandon the case. He did not doubt that the counsel had undertaken this matter in good faith; he had a profound respect for his ability, for his integrity; but he thought his kindly nature and love of justice had been imposed upon, and that there was only a Heaven-dammed motive on the part of the instigator. Day, after day had been consumed by the prosecution, and so trivolous was the character of the evidence that the defense had scarcely entered into a cross-examinalon in the community about the matter, and that was that Mr. Eldred was the innocent victim of foul, wanton, and malicious prosccution; and
